The project consisted of two parts:

- The first was to help the College identify and evaluate air-supported dome providers and their products.
- The second was to design the foundation system for the selected product.

Four dome providers were solicited and narrowed down to two; they provided detailed proposals that we scored. This resulted in the selection of The Farley Group (TFG).

Foundation design work incorporated standard details provided by TFG.

We also provided storm water management design and construction administration services.
